Kerr v. Hickenlooper, the Constitutional Challenge of TABOR
Salon AB

Kerr v. Hickenlooper is a lawsuit in federal district court in Colorado. The Plaintiffs in the case, current and past state legislators, public officials, educators, administrators and private citizens, have sued to overturn the Taxpayer Bill of Rights ("TABOR"). Among its many provisions, TABOR removed from the state legislature and local governments the power to enact tax legislation; instead, it requires voter approval of any new tax measures. By eliminating an essential fiscal power of the Colorado General Assembly, the Plaintiffs claim that TABOR has fundamentally undermined Colorado’s representative democracy and that, as a result, the state no longer has a "republican form of government," as guaranteed to all states under the Guarantee Clause (Article IV, section 4) of the United States Constitution. In March of this year, a motion to dismiss the case was denied by the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals and that decision was reaffirmed in July.

Come hear the arguments on both sides of this ongoing case challenging a Colorado constitutional provision that has significantly changed the way state and local governments do business.

Given this scarcity of financial resources, competition among local and state entities has never been greater. This panel of experts will provide differing perspectives on the future of transportation funding in Colorado.

Wednesday, December 3

8:30 – 10 a.m.  Commissioner & ACCA Concurrent Issue Session
Here Comes the Sun: Colorado Open Meetings and Open Records Laws
Foothills

In the past decade, laws regarding open meetings and open records have taken center stage – especially with respect to election results challenges. Open records laws have been amended numerous times at the Capitol in the past few years in the name of increased access and transparency. Trying to navigate the various statutes on open meetings is not easy, and even when a county is in strict compliance with these laws, the commissioners can still be “tried” in the court of public opinion. This session will be led by county attorneys and will include updates on both open meetings and open records law, as well as practical advice for staying out of trouble.

Bruce Barker, County Attorney, Weld County

The washing machine doesn’t do the laundry. Power does.

Power works tirelessly around the house. It helps us do the things we need to do — and lets us do the things we want to do. To that end, electric cooperatives across the West are working hard to make sure that power is reliable, affordable and responsible. With their power supplier, Tri-State, co-ops are innovating to help homeowners, farmers and ranchers, and businesses use power wisely. In doing so, members of electric co-ops save money and make better use of resources. Learn more at PowerWorksForYou.coop.

ECONOMIC GROWTH

RELIABLE ENERGY AT A REASONABLE PRICE.
Because our community’s economic vitality depends on energy, Xcel Energy works hard to provide reliable, reasonably priced energy to the homes and businesses we serve. Through investment in capital projects that ensure we can continue to meet our customers’ needs, we’re working to build a strong energy future ... and a strong local economy.

FULL DEPTH RECLAMATION (FDR) with CEMENT

- Recycling roads saves money and natural resources
- Recycling costs are up to 50% less than removal and replacement
- Recycles the materials from the deteriorated asphalt pavement and base
- The recycled base will be stronger, more uniform, and more moisture resistant than the original base
- The addition of portland cement creates a new stabilized base
- Maximize Accessibility – And overlay with asphalt or concrete
- Can drive on new base within hours
- Reduces material waste to landfills

The ideal alternative to costly full-depth reconstruction of roads

CCI Foundation Summer Conference
June 1-3, 2015 • Summit County, Colorado
When floods knocked out a local bridge, cutting off a town and stalling an EPA cleanup, county officials called Transpan Bridges. With a proven team approach, Transpan engineered and installed a prefabricated bridge solution in just 60 days.

Transpan has been working with Colorado counties, municipalities, and recreation districts for over 25 years, providing fast, lasting bridge solutions for any road.
