

Citizen Report of Possible Violation of Public Health Orders (PHO)

NOTICES:

Enforcement of public health orders: There have been a number of executive and public health orders issued by Governor Polis and the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment. These orders are intended to minimize contact between people to the greatest extent possible to minimize the spread of COVID19. These orders adopted by the State apply to residents in La Plata and Archuleta County and the four municipalities in these counties. The Southern Ute Indian Tribe has also adopted a public health order. These public health orders have the effect of law and there are legal consequences if they are violated. Current health orders issued by the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment may be found here <https://covid19.colorado.gov/public-health-executive-orders-explained>.

Geographic area: This portal is for use of complaints about violations of public health orders that may occur in La Plata County, Archuleta County, City of Durango, Town of Pagosa Springs, Town of Bayfield or Town of Ignacio. Complaints received will be routed to the appropriate jurisdiction for investigation, as resources and priorities allow.

Complaints and investigations: Any party may make a complaint alleging one or more public health order violations. Public health advisories are not orders and complaints related to public health advisories will not be investigated. Due to workload constraints, agencies are unable to investigate anonymous complaints or complaints with insufficient detail. Not all complaints will be investigated and, due to other demands and staffing challenges related to COVID19, it is likely agencies will be unable to follow up on each complaint. Complaints will be prioritized in order of their seriousness and the risk the behavior poses to overall public health and safety.

Enforcement action: Violations of public health orders may be subject to one or more legal or administrative remedies including civil and criminal penalties, or the suspension, revocation or non-renewal of liquor licenses, business licenses, or retail food licenses.

Public disclosure: All complaints filed through this portal may be subject to the Colorado Open Records Act and subject to public disclosure. Please do not provide personal health information.
